TRANSIT COMPANY SALE CONFIRMED

Exceptions to Sale of Transit Company are Overruled in Adams County Court and Sale of September is Approved.

On Friday the sale of the Gettysburg Transit Company to the Central Trust and Savings Company, of Philadelphia, last September was confirmed in Adams County Court, the exceptions to the sale being overruled by Judge Swope.

The exceptions filed to the confirmation of the sale of the property of the Gettysburg Transit Company were filed on behalf of H. A. Sage, a stockholder and creditor of the Gettysburg Transit Company and on behalf of a half dozen other general creditors of the Transit Company.

They alleged that C. Taylor Leland, as Receiver of the Transit Company in September 1909 presented a petition to Court for permission to issue $7884.00 of receiver's certificates to redeem the stock of the Keystone Electric Light Company which had been pledged with the Central Savings Company of Philadelphia as collateral for a loan to the Transit Company, all of which stock he alleged in the petition to belong to the Transit Company. These certificates were issued as prayed for.

At the same time a receiver's certificate was issued for $2900 to pay the Westinghouse Company the sum of $2900 for electrical machinery leased to the Light Company.

The advertisement of sale of the property of the Transit Company contained no reference to the stock of the Light Company as an asset of the Transit Company and no reference to the electrical machinery which the money of the Transit Company was used to pay for, and it was therefore contended that the sale was unfair. The conditions of sale, read immediately prior to the sale provided that the purchaser should take "the rights of the Transit Company in the stock of the Light Company, whatever those rights might be," and it was urged that these conditions were framed in the interest of C. Taylor Leland, a bidder, and did not state specifically that the purchaser would receive said stock. The Court over-ruled the exceptions and confirmed the sale.

LOCAL HUNTERS INTERESTED

Gettysburg and Adams County hunters are much interested in the proposed gun tax which the State Game Commission will lay before the next Legislature. The tax proposed is one dollar for every man who hunts.

Secretary Kalbfus, of the commission, said about the matter:

"A tax of one dollar would maintain thirty game preserves such as the three now in the State, would pay a competent force of officers and would make possible a bigger bounty than ever enjoyed before in Pennsylvania.

"It would also create a fund that would make possible the payment of farmers who would winter quail and then open their farm land to hunters who are registered.

"Such a tax would make a hunters' paradise of Pennsylvania and there would be ten times the amount of game in the State there is now. The tax would place the State in a position to restock its forests with game.

"Hunting is a necessity as well as a sport," continued Dr. Kalbfus. "The State owes it to the boys of Pennsylvania that there be good hunting. There must be game if the boys are to become experts at shooting and if the State expects them to do duty as soldiers when called upon, they must be expert shooters.

"I believe that boys under fourteen should not be taxed. A tax might be objected to by some of the farmers, but only by those who do not understand the working out of a tax. If there were a tax there would be a sure bounty; there would be no running out of bounty money. A farmer who pays the tax could get his dollar repaid if he kills but one weasel."

MRS. ANNA E. REEVER

Mrs. Anna E. Reever, wife of John E. Reever, formerly of near Gettysburg, died at her home in West Philadelphia early Friday morning after an illness of more than one year from a complication of diseases, aged about 47 years.

She was a daughter of the late William Feesser, of Hanover, and was married about 32 years ago to John E. Reever, son of William Reever, of near Gettysburg, who survives her, with three daughters and one son. The daughters are Mrs. J. A. Brockley, of Hanover; Misses Nita and Dorcas Reever, at home. The son, Clyde Reever, also resides at home. Two brothers—Melvin and Frank Feesser, of Hanover, one sister, and one step-sister also survive.

Funeral Tuesday in Hanover.

SCHOOLS CLOSED BY THE MEASLES

Fairfield Finds that Attendance is so Small that Closing Schools is Necessary. Twenty Families Have Cases.

So widespread has become the measles epidemic in Fairfield that it has been found necessary to close the schools in that place on account of the low attendance. Twenty families in the town are quarantined and in some of the houses six children have the disease.

The first school closed was the primary in charge of Miss Bess Kittinger. This was closed the middle of the week and on Friday the other two rooms, taught by Prof. Landes and Miss Witherow closed. All of the schools are situated in the same building and will remain closed until January 24 if not longer. During this period a heating plant will be installed in the building.

The Board of Health has taken active steps to stamp out the disease but Fairfield has what is known as only a partial quarantine for measles. The house is placarded so that no one enters except at their own risk. The patient is put under quarantine for twenty-one days but other members of the family are allowed to go out.

While the other members are allowed to go about town at will, they are not permitted to attend any public meeting or gathering and it is believed that this will aid materially in getting rid of the annoying condition which confronts the West End borough.

The number of cases runs well up towards a hundred for while the number of houses containing measles patients is only a score, two and three and sometimes six are ill with the ailment under one roof.

DEATH TAKES MRS. ALLISON

Suffering Relapse after October Fire West Middle Street Resident Grows Steadily Worse, Death Following Friday Afternoon.

Failing rapidly in health since the October fire which partly destroyed the stable on the property which they occupy, Mrs. Herbert P. Allison died at her home on West Middle street shortly after three o'clock Friday afternoon from a complication of diseases. She was aged 48 years, 7 months and 5 days.

Mrs. Allison had been in ill health for some time but the night of the fire, which partly destroyed the barn of J. A. Tawney in one of whose houses the family resides, Mrs. Allison was exposed to the cold and suffered from the effects of her exposure so much that she was compelled to go to bed. She kept failing steadily death finally following on Friday.

FAVOR LAFEAN'S PLAN

That the traveling expenses of railway postal clerks should be paid by the government as provided in a bill introduced at the first session of the Sixty first congress, last April, by Representative Lafean of the York-Adams district, is recommended by Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock in his annual report.

To authorize him to make a travel allowance to clerks assigned to duty in railway postoffices and permit a convenient plan of audit the following legislation is suggested by Mr. Hitchcock: "The postmaster general under such regulations as he may prescribe may make a travel allowance in lieu of actual expenses to each railway postal clerk who is assigned to duty in a railway postoffice, at the rate of 25 cents for each meal and lodging which, in the opinion of the postmaster general, may be necessary for said railway postal clerk while he is traveling on duty away from his home and the beginning of his run, but each allowance shall not exceed $1 for any period of 24 hours.

The measure introduced by Congress man Lafean was as follows: "Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled that from and after July 1, 1910, railway postal clerks shall be paid their actual and necessary traveling expenses, not to exceed $1 per day, while away from the terminal which their runs or series of runs begin and end, when actually on duty, such expenses to be paid under the direction of the postmaster general."

For Spring Work

State Zoologist Surface has sent out a call for a meeting in Harrisburg beginning January 31 and to continue until February 4, of the thirty field demonstrators and orchard inspectors of his department. Their work will have to do with the Spring demonstration cars that will be run this year through the Cumberland Valley and over the Pennsylvania railroad between Harrisburg and Philadelphia.

The cars will be started from Harrisburg probably in February and will spend three weeks in the Cumberland Valley, stopping at all points between Harrisburg and the Maryland line.

MUCH SICKNESS IN THE COUNTY

Gettysburg and Adams County Report Large Number of Cases of Various Diseases. Physicians Busy. Some Typhoid.

Gettysburg physicians report a great deal of sickness both in the town and county and they are all kept busy these winter days. The county doctors tell the same story and many people are wrestling with one kind of sickness or another.

Our county correspondents in their letters report many people "on the sick list" and the number of people "under the weather" is decidedly larger than usual, especially in view of the fine winter weather which has prevailed for the last few weeks.

The serious sickness is largely Pneumonia and kindred diseases. Colds and cases of gripe are numerous while the various other ailments are getting their share of the victims.

Children's diseases are reported in unusually large numbers from various parts of the county. Fairfield's measles scare has been noted elsewhere and Arendtsville's chicken pox trouble has also been told. There is some diphtheria in the county but fortunately very little.

The county reports in some places a number of cases of Typhoid Fever and more patients than usual are receiving treatment for this "hanger on."

Accidents have been comparatively few during the past ten days and physicians have little work of this kind to do.

G. & H. ROAD O. K.

Although it owns no cars and no locomotives and has but thirty-two miles of trackage, the Gettysburg and Harrisburg railway is considered to be one of the best revenue producers in this section. Its maintenance of way department consists of five section gangs that are distributed between Carlisle Junction and Gettysburg, bringing the operation of the road down to the minimum.

It is a single track railroad but it brings in about $500,000 worth of business every year. It passes through a great apple belt and during the apple season an average of 300 cars are shipped off this little railroad. Its freight business consists of about thirty carloads a day and during the Summer the passenger traffic is made heavy with excursions that are run to the Gettysburg battlefield. The controlling interest is owned by the Philadelphia and Reading which furnishes the necessary rolling stock—Harrisburg Patriot.

ALMOST FROZEN TO DEATH

One morning this week workmen on the new station at St. Joseph's Academy near Emmitsburg carried from the snow near the race bridge on the pike the half frozen body of a tramp, who afterwards gave his name as James Mitchell. The man was almost dead from exposure and it was not with little difficulty that Dr. Brawner brought him back to consciousness. The afternoon of the same day he was taken to the Maryland General Hospital, Baltimore, for treatment.

The man said he had come from Frederick the day before and had spent the night in the Cretin barn. When found he was almost dead. A large icicle had formed below his nose from the frozen moisture of his breath and many spots on his body were frozen. He was found lying in the snow beside the road. From appearance it is judged he is between 65 and 70 years old.

WARDEN WILSON SERVES WARRANT

Charles H. Wilson Goes to Waynesboro to Serve Warrant for Alleged Violation of Game Law. Hearing to be Held Here.

Game Warden and Constable Wilson went to Waynesboro Friday with a warrant for former Councilman S. E. Beeler, of that place, charging that he had violated the game laws in shooting a deer, the prongs of whose horns could not be seen. Mr. Beeler gave bail for a hearing in Gettysburg next Thursday.

It is said by Mr. Beeler's friends that it can be shown that the deer which he shot had prongs which had pushed through the skin and could be plainly seen and that because of this there was no violation of the law.

Local hunters will be much interested in the outcome of the case.

New Railroad to Cross Fulton

A charter was issued at the state capitol Thursday to the Tuscarora Railroad Company, to build a line forty-five miles long in Huntingdon and Fulton counties. The company is controlled almost entirely by New York and Connecticut people and proposes to construct a line from Blair's Mills, Huntingdon county, to a point in Fulton county, where Licking creek crosses the line between Pennsylvania and Maryland. The company's capital stock is $450,000.

The Tuscarora Valley railroad extends from Port Royal, about forty-five miles west of Harrisburg, southward through Tuscarora Valley to Blair's Springs, near the Juniata county line in Huntingdon county. The new railroad is to extend from that point through the eastern part of Huntingdon county, within a few miles of the Franklin county to the Maryland line. This terminus is within a few miles of the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and there may be something more than appears upon the surface in the formation of the new company to extend the Tuscarora Valley line, especially in view of the fact that it has been for some time reported that the Tuscarora people are contemplating the standardization of their railroad. The new line is separated from a Franklin county extension of the Cumberland Valley by only a few miles of ally country.

KING'S EARS BOXED

Mrs. John J. Bingley, who died in Hanover Thursday night in her eightieth year, told interesting reminiscences of her youth in England and thrilling experiences here during the Civil War. The Bingleys lived in Richmond, Va., during the first three years of the Rebellion and nursed Union prisoners on Bell Island, near their home. They ran the blockade in 1864, getting safely through the picket lines of both armies by traveling at night on foot, with guides, and hiding in the daytime. On the occasion of Queen Victoria's visit to Manchester in 1851 Mrs. Bingley witnessed the public chastisement of a member of the royal family. Her Majesty, accompanied by her husband, Prince Albert, and the young Albert Edward, now King Edward VII, was riding through the city and bowing to the assembled multitude, when at the place where Mrs. Bingley was stationed Prince Albert astonished the spectators by severely boxing the ears of little Prince Albert Edward for insubordination.

IN MEMORIAM

Lola Marie, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hoffman, born Dec. 23d, died Dec. 30th.
Not long ago, not very long ago—
Two sparkling eyes were peering into mine
Eyes very bright,
With heavenly light
But closed tonight
To waken in a fairer clime.
Not far away, not very far away,
A grave, new made, lies aging in the sun
A grave, fresh, wee,
A babe care free
Are calling me
To answer God's "well done."

NURSE CRUSHED TO DEATH

Elevator Shot Up While She Was Rolling a Cot From It.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 8.—Miss Mary Coombe, twenty-one years of age, a student nurse at the Mercer hospital, was crushed to death by one of the elevators at that institution.

She had been assigned to duty in a ward on the second floor and took a roller cot down to the first floor on the elevator. As the lower floor was reached Miss Coombe turned the wheel which controls the power, but she turned it beyond the point at which the elevator is stopped, and the car started upward again as she was endeavoring to pull the cot through the doorway.

The nurse's head was caught between the elevator and the side of the shaft and her skull crushed. The car, with no one near to stop it, sped upward, and Miss Coombe's body dropped twenty feet to the pit below.

GIRL CRUCIFIES HERSELF ON BED

Nailed Feet and Hand and Wore Crown of Thorns.

Rome, Jan. 8.—A strange story comes from Turin about the act of a servant girl who became possessed of a religious mania. The woman who employed the girl found her crucified on a bed. After an investigation the employer discovered that the girl, after placing a crown of thorns on her head and inflicting a severe wound on her chest, nailed her feet and her left hand to the bed boards and calmly spent the night suffering tortures such as Christ is said to have undergone. When discovered the woman was unconscious from pain and loss of blood and was taken to a hospital in a dying condition. She admitted that out of love for Jesus Christ she had voluntarily crucified herself. Her reason for this, she said, was that she wished to share Christ's sufferings.

The doctors declare that the girl is hysterical and therefore insensible to pain, but the common people regard the case as miraculous.

HANGED FOR ASSAULT

Negro Boy Who Attacked Woman Admits Crime.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 8.—Confessing his crime, Earl Thompson, the seventeen-year-old negro boy, who in October last attacked Mrs. Ransom Roberts at her home in the county, was hanged here. The negro had spent a great deal of time in Bible reading and prayer during the time he was in jail. When he was arrested the officers only prevented him from being lynched by promising the citizens a speedy trial and conviction. Thompson had been employed at the Roberts home doing odd chores about the house.

THE BOXBOARD TRUST INDICTED

140 Manufacturers Charged With Violating Law.

FIXED PRICE OF PRODUCT

Government Alleges That by Means of an Illegal Combination $5,000,000 Was Extorted From Consumers Annually.

New York, Jan. 8.—The Paper Board association, an organization of 140 manufacturers, headed by John H. Parks, was indicted by the federal grand jury. Ninety of the representatives of the defendants pleaded not guilty before Judge Hough, in the United States circuit court, and were given this week for final pleading. No ball was asked by United States Attorney Wise, and the defendants were paroled in the custody of James M. Beck, Henry Wollman and Edward M. Shepard, their counsel. The charge against the organization is that it engaged in an illegal combination in restraint of trade of interstate trade and commerce in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The Paper Board association was organized on Sept. 1, 1905, for the purpose, according to the indictment, of prescribing the output and regulating the price of paper and boxboard manufactured by the members. Each member was required to contribute $8 a month for each ton of merchandise shipped during the month to a general fund, from which the expenses of the association were to be paid. From this monthly contribution 25 cents for each ton shipped was to be transferred to a contingent fund, the balance to be distributed monthly among the members in accordance with their ratings.

The overt acts cited in the indictment include letters written by John H. Parks to various officers, the reports of the treasurer and the price committee and quotations from the minutes of the quarterly meetings. From the quarterly meeting held on Dec. 4 and 5, 1907, the minutes include the following items:

"Fix your selling prices for the ensuing quarter."

"Fix your pool contributions for the ensuing quarter."

"Fix your cost schedule for the ensuing quarter."

"Fix your sales allotment for the ensuing quarter."

By means of the alleged unlawful combination the indictment states that there has been an annual extortion from consumers to the amount of $5,000,000.

The corporations indicted are doing business in New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Delaware, West Virginia, Connecticut, Illinois and Virginia.

FAMILY IN HANDS OF FATE

Three Children Die, One Is Burned and Three More Are Ill.

Camden, N. J., Jan. 8.—Relentless fate appears to be pursuing the family of Mr. and Mrs. George Seel, of Oaklyn, Camden county. During the past three years three of their children have died, the last one, George, Jr., ten years old being buried in Evergreen cemetery, Camden, Friday.

Lying in the Cooper hospital is George Seel, the grandfather of the remaining children. A short time ago, while leaning over the side of his chair to get his pipe, he fell and broke his hip. He is eighty-seven years old, and with his aged wife makes his home with his son.

On another cot in the hospital is the seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seel. Last week while in the garret at her home she accidentally set fire to her dress. She was terribly burned.

The three remaining children are ill with typhoid fever. The youngest, sixteen months old, is in a serious condition. The mother is assisted in the care of the little ones by the mother of Mr. Seel.

$200,000,000 GAS DEAL

Southern West Virginia Output Bought by New York Capitalists.

Huntington, W. Va., Jan. 8.—A deal which involves approximately $200,000,000, and by which New York capital, said to be backed by the Standard Oil company, will control the entire gas output of West Virginia, has practically been closed.

For some time the New York interests have controlled the gas situation throughout the northern and central parts of the state. By the new deal they will gain control of the southern fields also.

The new deal involves the United Fuel Gas company, of Pittsburgh, which only recently took over the extensive holdings of the United States Natural Gas company in this state; the Columbia Gas company, which supplies Cincinnati; the Interstate Gas company, the Ohio Fuel Supply company, and others, all of which draw their supply from southern West Virginia.

It is said to be the intention of the New York men to pipe gas to New York, Philadelphia and other seaboard cities.

FIERCE BATTLE WITH MAD DOG ON ICE

Man, With Animal's Head, Goes to Pasteur Institute.

Millville, N. J., Jan. 8.—After a terrible battle with a mad dog, during which he was bitten a dozen times about the hands and arms, George Boardman left for the Pasteur institute in New York city for treatment, taking along with him the head of the dog.

While Boardman was struggling with icy pavements to reach his home he was startled to have a dog come rushing at him, the animal seizing him by the foot. Boardman kicked at the dog, and in doing so lost his balance and fell on the pavement. The dog, with a howl of pleasure, attacked Boardman again, seizing him by the wrist. Boardman tore his wrist from between the dog's jaws, and then grabbed it by the throat. Over and over the dog and man rolled in the sleet and snow, during which struggle the dog repeatedly bit Boardman's hands.

The strain of holding the animal finally proved more than his strength would allow. His shouts for help brought neighbors, who first stunned the dog and then killed it. Three of Boardman's fingers were stripped of flesh to the bone, and he will lose the use of two of them, the tendons being torn. Marshall Biggs cut off the animal's head and prepared it for shipment to New York.

HIS SHADOWER.

By SARAH J. ATWATER.
[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

In the town of Selkirk during the reign of Henry IV. of Scotland a shoemaker sat working at his bench. From the rear of his shop came a child's cry. The man paused in his work and listened. The child was hushed by its mother, and the shoemaker went on with his work. Presently a woman entered the shop. She was young and handsome.

"I pray you, Alec," she said, "give up this mad freak. We are not strong enough to successfully invade England. Let the king lead an army over the border if he likes and take the consequences which will be sure defeat. But do you stay at home. If you go you may lose your life; if you return our people will revile you for bringing misfortune upon them."

"I think you are wrong, Margaret," replied her husband. "Our people are turning out in great force. I alone am to bring a hundred men to the army of invasion."

"And wreck a hundred families?" "Scotland will be the gainer."

"Scotland will be the sufferer. I beseech you desist."

"I have gone too far to retreat, Margaret. I would be upbraided for a turncoat."

Margaret Hume returned to the dwelling portion of the cottage, but in a moment returned with their baby girl, five months old. Holding the child up to its father, she said:

"If you are killed, Alec, in this war who will keep me and your child from misery?"

The appeal brought tears to the man's eyes. Gladly would he have abandoned his intention, but pride held him from doing so. He would not desert his king and his country in their hour of need.

"Your desire to be thought brave, Alec," cried his wife, made desperate by his firmness, "will not supply the child whom you are bound to support with bread or clothing. Honor, forsooth! Here is where honor lies for you—dishonor in deserting your wife and baby!"

The couple parted in anger, Hume to join the force marching to battle.

In the fight that ensued Alexander Hume was in the thick of the battle, performing prodigies of valor. The men he had induced to join in the enterprise and whom he commanded, incited by his example, stood by him nobly. One man in leather doublet and with a small white feather in his helmet, who had come on to the field just as the battle began, took position beside him and fought with equal courage as himself. An English soldier succeeded in getting very close to Hume and was about to plunge his spear between the clasps of his armor when the man with the white feather struck down the enemy.

"Your name?" cried Hume.

"Never mind my name," replied the man who had saved his life.

Wherever Hume went that day the man with the white feather went, protecting him from the many perils that beset him and on many an occasion forestalling an enemy who was about to crush him. At last the scattered army gave way and fled in every direction before the victorious Englishmen. Hume, with the others, escaped from the field and for a time lay concealed to avoid capture. His first thought after emerging from his hiding place was the soldier who had hovered near him. Of every one he met he inquired if he knew of the fate of the man with the white feather. Had he escaped or was his dead body lying on the field of battle? All he could learn was that the shadower had disappeared.

Hume's next thought was for his wife and child. He hurried toward his cottage his mind filled with her prophesies as to the misfortunes the invaders would bring upon Scotland by their rash course and her pleadings for him to take no part in it, reserving his life for her and their child. He would acknowledge her superior judgment, and he would ask her forgiveness. He longed to fold her and their child in a single embrace.

He hoped as he approached his cottage to find her looking for him. She would be at the door or he would find her on the street, coming to meet him. He did not meet her, and she was not at the door of the cottage when he arrived. There was an ominous silence. With a dread he could not account for he lifted the latch and walked in. There was no one in his work room, and no sound came from the rear. Entering there he looked about him. There was little light and he could distinguish no one in the room.

Presently his eyes became used to the darkness, and he distinguished a man sitting in a chair. Going to him, he saw on his head an iron helmet and in the helmet a white feather. Removing the helmet, he recognized the pale face of his wife. Their child was clasped tightly in her arms. She was dead.

The coat of arms of the town of Selkirk show a woman seated on a tomb on which is placed the Scottish lion. The legend about this heraldic device is the story of Alexander and his wife Margaret Hume. It is historically true that when King James was about to invade England the town clerk of Selkirk, William Brydoun, tried his best to aid his sovereign by persuading the Scots to enlist in the royal cause. Among those was a strong, brave young man, a shoemaker, named Alexander Hume of Selkirk, who brought a hundred men to the royal standard. The rest may be legend, but why the woman in the Scotch coat of arms?

QUICK RELIEF OF ITCHING ECZEMA

Was Surprising—Inflammation Reduced in a Few Hours and Cure Soon Followed—Boy's Torture Had Been Intense for Years—Friend's Child Had Eczema, Too.

MOTHER TELLS HOW CUTICURA CURED BOTH

"When my boy was six years old, he suffered terribly with eczema. He could neither sit still nor lie quietly in bed, for the itching was dreadful. He would irritate spots by scratching with his nails and that only made them worse. A doctor treated him and we tried almost everything, but the eczema seemed to spread. It started in a small place on the lower extremities and spread for two years until it very nearly covered the back part of his leg to the knee. "Finally I got Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Pills and gave them according to directions. I used them in the morning and that evening, before I put my boy to bed, I used them again and the improvement even in those few hours was surprising, the inflammation seemed to be so much less. I used two boxes of Cuticura Ointment, the same of the Pills and the Soap and my boy was cured. My son is now in his seventeenth year and he has never had a return of the eczema. "I took care of a friend's child that had eczema on its face and limbs and I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. They acted on the child just as they did on my son and it has never returned. I would recommend the Cuticura Remedies to anyone. Mrs. A. J. Cochran, 1823 Columbia Ave., Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 20, 1909."

Nervous Prostration

"I suffered so with Nervous Prostration that I thought there was no use trying to get well. A friend recommended Dr. Miles' Nervine, and although skeptical at first, I soon found myself recovering, and am to-day well."
MRS. D. I. JONES,
5800 Broadway, Cleveland, O.

Much sickness is of nervous origin. It's the nerves that make the heart force the blood through the veins, the lungs take in oxygen, the stomach digest food, the liver secrete bile and the kidneys filter the blood. If any of these organs are weak, it is the fault of the nerves through which they get their strength. Dr. Miles' Nervine is a specific for the nerves. It soothes the irritation and assists in the generation of nerve force. Therefore you can hardly miss it if you take Dr. Miles' Nervine when sick. Get a bottle from your druggist. Take it all according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.

FIND BODY OF TUNNEL DIGGER

Plot to Rob Bank Ends in Death Under Street.

FAMILY SEE BODY FOUND

Painter's Dream of Wealth Was Probably Inspired by Moving Picture Shows.

New York, Jan. 8.—Isaac Finkelstein, who tried to tunnel under Ludlow street, died like a rat in a trap. It took over thirty-six hours of digging to recover his body.

Nothing more futile and hopeless was ever seen. There he lay, under the middle of the street, a crushed, mummy-like figure, his face in the dirt, his hands stretched out before him, pointed toward the unattainable millions in the vault of the East Side branch of the Fourteenth Street National bank and the diamonds in the window of the jewelry shop next door.

Family See Body Found.

His wife and their five children saw the first stroke of the pick that uncovered his shoes. They had been watching the sappers in the trench all night and all day. Sarah, the eldest child, was hard-eyed and defiant.

"My papa was an honest man," she said doggedly. "He does not dig for anything. He went down into the cellar and fell into the hope." Sarah is eleven.

Her mother, not less loyal, but wiser, rocked to and fro, weeping silently, and would neither be comforted nor ask help.

Isaac Finkelstein was a good natured, easy going house painter. He knew nothing about driving tunnels. He had only the rudest tools, no timber to shore up the roofs and walls of his burrow, no burglar's kit to bore through the concrete and steel vaults of the bank vaults, no adequate idea of the elaborate precautions constantly on watch inside those walls against him, no revolver for the ever possible crisis—nothing but his guilty dream. And the dream collapsed.

What ingenuity he had was tasked to the utmost to keep his secret from his wife. It might be better now if he had told her. That is all there is to Finkelstein and his terrifying tunnel. It would be ludicrous if it were not so pitiful.

Moving Picture Robberies.

Finkelstein was a patron of the East Side moving picture theaters, and many a successful bank robbery had been flashed briefly on the white sheet by the calcium light. These things may have worked on the imagination of the easy going, impetuous painter with five children to support. If they did he must have thought of them every time he looked out of his garret window, for behind him, on the dead wall of the bank, faded the legend, "Deposits, $10,000,000," and by craning his neck a little he could see the diamonds of Zircinsky, the jeweler, burning in the window of the brilliantly lighted shop.

But nobody knows what Finkelstein thought, unless it be Isidor Garbus, his brother-in-law, who reported his disappearance to the police. Isidor lived in the same tenement with Finkelstein, but though he is detained as a witness there is no proof that he had guilty knowledge of the tunnel.

SHOOTS BRIDE FOR BURGLAR

Groom of Three Days Did Not Know Wife Was Somnambulist.

Cape Charles, Va., Jan. 8.—Mistaking her for a burglar while she was walking in her sleep, Jefferson Taylor, a farmer at Oak Hall, shot and seriously wounded his bride of three days. The ball entered the woman's hip and has not been located at the Salisbury hospital, to which she was removed.

Taylor was awakened by hearing noises in an adjoining room and, thinking burglars were at work, he seized his revolver and started to investigate. As he peered into the room he discerned a figure and opened fire. He was horrified when he recognized the voice of his wife exclaiming: "You have shot me."

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor were married only three days ago and the wife had never intimated to her husband that she was a victim of somnambulism.

LATHAM UP 3280 FEET

French Aviator Beats All Previous Records in His Machine.

Mourmelon, France, Jan. 8.—During a forty-five minute spectacular flight here Hubert Latham, the French aviator, attained an altitude unofficially estimated at about 3280 feet. This is a new record and beats by more than 1000 feet the best previous record, the figures of which are disputed. Latham carried an officially controlled barometer, and there is no question of the height he reached.

KEPT BODY OF DEAD GIRL A WEEK

Claims Adopted Daughter Would Rise From Dead.

Newburgh, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Edwin Powell, who says he is sixty-four years old, with long white hair and whiskers, is in jail here for keeping in his rooms, without the services of an undertaker, his adopted daughter, who seven days ago died of consumption. The charge against him is violation of state health laws.

Powell is the founder of a religion which he styles "Judaism." Five years ago he came here from Cornwall, from which place he was virtually driven by the indignation of the people.

At Cornwall the story runs that he had received manifestations from the most high that he was to be the father of the second messiah, whose coming he looked for. The messiah was to be born of a virgin daughter, and the young woman who has just died was to be the mother. This girl had been adopted into the family of Powell, which consisted of himself, a wife and an infant.

In due time the girl gave birth to a child, but it was a girl baby. This knocked the second messiah coming into a cocked hat and Powell fled to this city.

During the sickness of the girl Dr. Andrews was called in. Last Saturday morning the girl died, and a proper death certificate was made out, but Powell failed to call an undertaker. The police discovered the situation and told Powell the body must be buried. This he failed to do, and Health Officer Snyder then took up the case.

After Powell's arrest he claimed that it had come to him that the girl would rise again from the dead; that he was certain it would happen and he would be justified before all men.

THE $9 HOG HAS ARRIVED

Not Since 1882 Has the Luscious Pig Gone So High.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—The $9 hog arrived at the Union Stock Yards here, and his coming marked an epoch in high prices for hogs.

Except for a short period in 1882, when the price reached $9.35 per hundred weight, the $9 hog has not been seen here since the Civil War. Continued intense cold impeding transportation and an apparent hesitation of producers to market their hogs are the primal causes of the advance in prices, which involves all of the pork products.

Washington, Jan. 8.—After a cabinet meeting lasting nearly four hours, President Taft caused the announcement to be made that he had directed Secretary of Agriculture Wilson to dismiss Gifford Pinchot from the office of forester of the agricultural department. Later on it was made known that Secretary Wilson, in accordance with a decision of the president and the cabinet, had dismissed Overton W. Price, associate forester.

GIFFORD PINCHOT.

and Mr. Pinchot's chief assistant, and Alexander C. Shaw, assistant law officer of the forest service. The action of the president on the eve of the congressional investigation into the allegations and insinuations against Secretary of the Interior Ballinger, the conduct of the policy of conserving natural resources is certain to cause a sensation.

Cannon Reversed.

Coupled with the dismissal of Forester Pinchot was the significant action of the house of representatives in connection with the joint resolution for an investigation of the charges affecting Secretary Ballinger. Through a combination of Democrats and Republican insurgents, aided by personal friends of Mr. Pinchot, the house rejected that provision of the resolution which directed Speaker Cannon to choose the representatives who should sit on the congressional committee of inquiry. The Cannon organization, which stood behind the resolution for an investigation, was overturned by a bare majority of three. Under the resolution as amended the house members of the joint committee of inquiry will be elected by the house itself.

The decision to dismiss Messrs. Pinchot, Price and Shaw was reached at a regular session of the cabinet. A later session was devoted to the preparation and revision of a letter written by President Taft to Mr. Pinchot, giving the reasons why Mr. Pinchot was to be removed from the government service. Briefly these reasons were that, contrary to instructions from Secretary Wilson, Forester Pinchot had written a letter to Senator Dooliver to be read publicly in the senate, defending Price and Shaw after they had admitted that they had inspired the magazine and press campaign against Secretary Ballinger; that Mr. Pinchot had cast reflections in the Dooliver letter on the action of President Taft in directing the dismissal of Louis R. Glavis, of the public land office, the man who charged that Mr. Ballinger and other officers of the interior department had been guilty of improper official conduct in connection with Alaska coal land claims, and that Mr. Pinchot had intimated in the Dooliver letter that without the magazine and press exploitation of Price and Shaw the administration would have allowed fraudulent coal land claims in Alaska to be patented. According to President Taft, Mr. Pinchot wrote to Senator Dooliver to offset in the public mind the president's decision in the Glavis case. Mr. Pinchot in this letter paid a high tribute to Mr. Glavis and indicated that President Taft had erred in dismissing him, and, by inference, that Mr. Glavis' charges against Secretary Ballinger were based upon proper grounds.

In official circles it is said there was no difference of opinion at the cabinet meeting in regard to what course should be taken with respect to Messrs. Pinchot, Price and Shaw.

KURIOS FROM KORRESPONDENTS

Q. What is the best plan to keep cocks from fighting through the fences in poultry yards?

A. Have baseboards higher than fowl's head. These are better than fine mesh wire, as they protect from wind.

Q. What is the color, shape and consistency of a healthy fowl's excrement?

A. Dark green tipped with white, cylindrical and sufficiently hard to hold shape.

Q. My hens are so big in the rear that some of their fluffs drag on the ground. Is this a disease, and what is the cure?

A. Your hens have "bagging down behind." You have fed them fat, and the big gob of fat has broken down the tissue. Better kill and eat the most corpulent, if they show no tumors, abscesses or inflammation, and make the others scratch hard for a few kernels a day until their bustles disappear.

Q. Do fowls ever get fits? Mine have something like it. What can I do?

A. Yes. They are generally caused by worms. Make birds hungry and feed a mash made moderately strong with turpentine.

Q. I have a big rooster here that I have never heard crow, and he generally walks his way and the hens theirs. He's a pretty bird in every other way, and I wish you could tell me something helpful. He is a Light Brahma.

A. Afraid you have a sexless male. Put him in bachelor quarters for awhile and feed him well, especially fresh meat. After a few weeks place a hen with him, and if he is still a woman hater kill him.

The Scrap Book

Not Guilty.

A very dignified and precise lady who lives in a suburb of Boston went away from home on a fortnight's visit to some relatives not long ago. After her return she was making an inspection of her house and came across a number of large, black, empty bottles in a corner of the cellar, partly covered with ashes. When, at the conclusion of banking hours, her husband came back from Boston, she met him at the door with the query, "Jim, where did all those empty bottles down cellar come from?"

Affecting an air of puzzled surprise, the honest man replied: "I'm sure I don't know, my dear. I never bought an empty bottle in my life."

True Nobleness.

"For this true nobleness I seek in vain. In woman and in man I find it not; I almost weary of my earthly lot. My life springs are dried up with burning pain."

Thou findest it not? I pray thee look again. Look inward through the depths of thine own soul.

How is it with thee? Art thou sound and whole?

Doth narrow search show thee no earthly stain?

Be noble, and the nobleness that lies in other men, sleeping, but never dead, will rise in majesty to meet thine own. Then wilt thou see it gleam in many eyes. Then will pure light around thy path be shed. And thou wilt never more be sad and lone.

—Lowell.

Out of Sight of Land.

"Yes," said a traveling man, "I was once out of sight of land on the Atlantic ocean twenty-one days."

There was a small sized crowd sitting around. Another man spoke up.

"On the Pacific ocean one time I didn't see land for twenty-nine days."

A little baldheaded man knocked the ashes from his cigar.

"I started across the Kaw river at Topeka in a skiff once," he said, "and was out of sight of land before I reached the other side."

"Aw, come off," said the man who had told the first tale. "The Kaw isn't more than 300 feet wide at Topeka."

"I didn't say it was," said the little baldheaded man quietly. "The skiff turned over, and I sank twice."—Denver Post.

Helping Out the Clerk.

An honest farmer from south Jersey who was unusually ignorant of city ways went to a fashionable hotel in Philadelphia with his son. The father retired early, but the son went out to "see the town." At 12:30 o'clock the farmer went downstairs and inquired of the night clerk if the boy had returned yet. He was told that he had not. The father went back to his room. An hour later he again appeared before the clerk and said, "Hain't Jack in yet?" Again he was informed that the lad was out.

The old man made several subsequent trips, and still his boy was among the missing. Finally at 3:30 o'clock the farmer trudged wearily down the stairs and asked again if his boy had returned. "No; he's not in yet," replied the night clerk.

"Waal, I guess he won't come in, then. Guess you needn't wait any longer."

Puzzled.

He had courted her for years, never missing his evening call, and finally was landed. On the day of the marriage a friend observed the bridegroom wandering about his new front yard in a restless manner, and with a very dejected expression. "Why, what's the matter, old man?" he asked. "You should be the happiest man alive, for today at least, and you look like a nut at a funeral."

The bridegroom started. "Er—of course I am very happy," he asserted. "Then why these glooms?"

"Well, to tell you the truth, Bill," the bridegroom said in a burst of confidence, "I was just wondering where I am to spend my evenings hereafter."

A Shock For Shaw.

Bernard Shaw some years ago met a young lady at a dinner party who said that she could read character from writing. Mr. Shaw denied belief in her powers and said that at any rate she could not read characters from typewriting.

Now, it happened that the host had just got a typewriter, and the young lady offered to be put to the test. The machine was brought, and Mr. Shaw, picking out the letters one by one, wrote his first name. Then he discovered that he had used only capital letters. So, shifting to the lower case, he wrote his last name.

Then he handed the result to his companion. This was what she read: "BERNARD shaw."

"It's as plain as anything," she said, with a smile. "It is your idea that, though there are a good many Shaws in the world, they are an undistinguished lot. You alone are Bernard Shaw, and your name is great."

The Best Way.

Dr. Wood of Harrow once summoned a boy to his presence to rebuke him for missing a battalion drill. The doctor began: "Do you know, sir, that as a justice of the peace I can have you hung, as honorary colonel of the cadet corps I can have you shot and as your headmaster I can have you birched?"

Now, which sentence do you prefer?"

The humor of the situation overcame the culprit's awe. "I prefer to be shot, sir, because then you will surely be hanged."

A Gilbert Story.

Sir W. S. Gilbert, who was one of the few playwrights who defended the stage censor, is noted for his caustic criticisms on anything which does not meet with his approval.

While dining out once some one happened to ask him his opinion of Burne Jones' women. "Too long in the neck," remarked the author of "The Mikado."

"When I look at one of them I always feel that she ought to have a joint in it and wear a stocking."—London Tit-Bits.

Mrs. K. Crouse, 135 West St., Gettysburg, Pa. says: "I suffered from kidney disease for years and was unable to find anything that would give me even temporary relief. I endured a great deal of misery from pains in the small of my back and I was also greatly troubled with headaches and dizzy spells. My kidneys gave me much trouble and the complaint was growing worse daily. When a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at the People's drug store and they proved to be just what I required. They went at once to the seat of the trouble and gave me immediate relief. I am now in better health than before in years, and it is all due to the curative powers of Doan's Kidney Pills."

A Clipping from the New York Music Trades Paper.

"What is a piano credit bond, check or certificate?"

The first prize called for $20, the second for $10, the third for $5, and fifteen others for $1 each. There were over 650 answers from all over the State, many of them clever. The judges were George W. Staley, shoe merchant; Bascum Montgomery, furniture merchant, and George R. Calhoun, jeweler. The first prize was won by Mr. B. O. Guggan, of Nashville, and is as follows:

"What is a piano bond, credit check or certificate? A deception and a snare. A marshmallow in the mouth and a green persimmon in the hands. A draft on credulity, payable in unfulfilled expectations. A parody on common sense. A Smyrna fig grown in California and packed in Utah. The bastard offspring of desire and disappointment."

The second prize was won by Mrs. M. S. Dittmore, of Dwyer, Tenn., and is as follows:

"A season's ticket to Fools Paradise. The time limit of those tickets varies in proportion as the degree of fool varies in the individual holders. The less fool the possessor is the sooner he sees the point, and the time limit is reached. It is a receipted tuition statement from Experience's School. Experience keeps a dear school, but fools will learn at no other. It is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."

A STUDY IN CACKLER CHARACTERISTICS.

"Too bad! Too bad!" cries the cook as she opens a chicken and finds her full of eggs.

Yes, what a sacrifice when fresh eggs are so "awful, awful high," but that's the way it goes when you don't test your hens with trap nests or study "egg type" and select accordingly.

The trap nest is a sure thing, but owners of small flocks don't care to bother with them, but every one may learn cackler characteristics, and, though this isn't quite so certain, it's far better than to select hens haphazard for the cook pot or to pick out nonlayers to keep.

Now, you must remember in judging hens that there must be plenty of room inside for a full sized egg factory and for the organs of circulation, respiration, digestion, urination and reproduction to properly perform their functions.

Narrow chested, long necked, narrow backed, very short backed, crooked backed, long legged, knockkneed, gawky hens aren't built for business.

A hen's egg capacity is born with her. Six hundred embryo eggs have been counted in one hen, and to lay these a hen must breathe well, eat, digest and assimilate well, be well and exercise well.

Reject fowls with rattling breath, that are light at time of full development, those that eat little and those that are dwarfs or giants or hoboes.

The prime layer scratches early and late and eats the most because her food must be sufficient in quantity to support both her body and her egg machinery. She is not angular, but reasonably fat, plump, muscular. Her cavities are covered with meat; she is a good singer and a special favorite of the male.

The rooster ostracizes the drone as you should ostracize her.

This hen hobo generally has a gob of fat at the rear, and her few spring eggs hatch drone pullets.

Follow this table of points for selection: Head, medium size; eye, bright, full, open; comb and wattles, medium, clear color; neck, medium length, stocky, well arched; back, medium length, broad at shoulders, nice cushion; tail, medium, angular, fluff, good size; body, medium length and depth, with medium underline and good keel; breast, broad, round, full; legs, stout, short between feet and thigh; feet, set square and wide apart.

WHITE DOTTER HEN.

(Laying record thirty-five pounds of eggs in twelve months.)

DON'TS.

Don't wait till spring to buy an incubator. In slack times you save dollars and dimes.

Don't drop a good job and take up chickens, thinking to get rich quick. Hot air castles have no fire escapes.

Don't blow before the show, and if you do win the boys will all know.

Don't swear at the express agent if rates are high. Go to your congressman and cuss the octopus.

The Planing Machine.

As to the original inventor of the planing machine there is perhaps scarcely a machine about which there has been more controversy than this, and there are many claimants to the honor. There are records, however, showing that Nicholas Forq, a French clockmaker, used a metal planer in 1751 for machining pump cylinders, apparently being under the impression that they could be made more accurately in this manner than by a revolving cutter.—Cassier's Magazine.
